

Marianne Scicluna is Director General of the Malta Financial Services Authority (MFSA), which is the single regulator of financial services in Malta, regulating credit institutions, financial institutions, securities markets, investment services providers and collective investment schemes, insurance and pensions as well as trustees.

Marianne was appointed as Director General in August 2014 and has responsibility for the day-to-day running of the supervisory function of the organisation and currently chairs the Supervisory Council of the MFSA and also sits on various committees established jointly with other organizations including the Central Bank of Malta.

She first joined the MFSA in 1995 and prior to her position as Director General, she held a number of senior posts within the MFSA including in the Securities Regulatory Unit, the Pensions Supervisory Unit and also headed the Authorisation Unit.

She began her career in the management consultancy sector before joining the MFSA.

She is professionally qualified in finance and regulation of financial services holding a General and an Honours degree in Banking and Finance and Management (University of Malta), and a Masters degree in Financial Regulation and Compliance Management (London).